SCHOOL REPORT.

TO THE CITIZENS OF AUBURN :

The school board respectfully submit the following report :

The pupils have numbered one hundred and seventeen ; fifty-three boys and sixty-four girls. They have been gathered into seven schools, and instructed by ten different teachers, five of whom were resident of this town and five of adjoining towns.

The school work has been carried on without special hindrance, and all the teachers have been in a measure successful. Some have merited particular mention for securing good order and diligence and thoroughness in study.

The board have encouraged the teachers to take sufficient time for a clear understanding by each pupil of the branches taught and to secure good order and correct moral and general deportment. The response has been gratifying. The teachers have with slight exception, set good examples and labored assiduously to carry out the instructions of the board. The parents have in most instances cordially rendered assistance. Considering the various views entertained by so many different persons the co-operation has been as complete as could be expected.

The two unsightly wood-houses have been repaired and painted and are now good object lessons of thrift and neatness.

The request of the board last March for additional funds for a winter school for the older and more advanced pupils was complied with. Such a school has been in session. The sickness that has so universally prevailed has hindered the work by reducing the average attendance considerably, one-third of the pupils being sick a part of the time. Aside from this the school has been a success. Good order and unusual diligence in study have marked the entire term. The teacher has shown a rare adaptation to his work.

A practical question arises. Would it be better to have two such schools in town the coming year, so that those more remote from the village school house might be better accommodated?

If you will furnish the funds the plan can easily be tried.

The interest in this movement has not been confined to our own town. We have been cheered by the favorable opinions expressed by those outside of our limits, as to the general need of such schools
